COMMENCEMENT

LEGEND OF THE SEAWOLF

The name Seawolf represents a mythical sea creature that, according to Tlingit legend, brings good luck to anyone fortunate enough to view it. The exact nature or shape of the Seawolf, however, is left to the imagination, thus the creature has been depicted in many forms throughout the years.

Today the spirit of the Seawolf lives in every UAA graduate!

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

Oh, say, can you see,
By the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed
At the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
Through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched,
Were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare,
The bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
That our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free
And the home of the brave?

Francis Scott Key

ALASKA'S FLAG SONG

Eight stars of gold on a field of blue,
Alaska's flag, may it mean to you;
The blue of the sea, the evening sky,
The mountain lakes and the flow'rs nearby;
The gold of the early sourdough's dreams,
The precious gold of the hills and streams;
The brilliant stars in the northern sky,
The "Bear," the "Dipper," and, shining high,
The great North Star with its steady light,
O'er land and sea a beacon bright,
Alaska's flag to Alaskans dear,
The simple flag of a last frontier.

HONORARY DEGREE AWARD

DON DECKER

Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

In his final year of instruction, Don Decker, who had served as an adjunct art instructor in UAA's Department of Art, was awarded a 2016 Distinguished Artist Award from the Rasmuson Foundation. It came as an unexpected but welcome surprise after a 45-year career with the Anchorage School District and UAA came to a close.

Decker, who has long participated in Alaska's art scene, credits much of his success as an artist and an educator to his teachers, who inspired his life's work. He began his artistic career as an abstract painter, followed by large-scale wood constructions. He's dabbled in many forms of art, from performance art, video, drawing and painting and assemblage. At UAA, he taught 2D design classes, focusing on teaching his students how to master the foundations of drawing and art.

Decker has been honored for his ability to teach the fundamentals of art to students in Anchorage and across the state and has received awards from the Anchorage Teacher Association, as Anchorage Teacher of the Year in 1987, been recognized by Anchorage's mayor and Municipal Assembly for his "devotion to Anchorage in support of art and artists" in 2004, and received an Anchorage Mayor's Arts Award in 2006 for Excellence in Artistic Discipline.

For Decker, art has been a lifelong passion and journey full of ups and downs. In 2013 he hosted a one-man performance art piece titled 50/50 at the Anchorage International Gallery of Art, showcasing the dueling roles of his life as an artist. His artistic career includes 35 solo shows and 250 exhibits in Alaska and the Lower 48. Decker's work can be found across Alaska and most notably at the Anchorage Museum at Rasmuson Center, Museum of the North, State Museum, Alaska Contemporary Art Bank, State of Hawaii Collection, Del Mar College National Collection and Alaska One Percent for Art.

KIKKAN RANDALL

Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

Kikkan Randall is a five-time Olympic skier and activist for women's health. Currently a member of the International Olympic Commission Athletes' Commission (and former chair 2013-2015), Randall was the first American, male or female to win an FIS World Cup in Alpine Skiing. In December 2007 she became the first American woman to win a World Cup competition in cross-country skiing. She capped her athletic career with America's first Olympic gold medal in cross-country skiing, taking gold in the women's team sprint freestyle cross-country race at the 2018 Olympics in Pyeongchang, China.

Just three months after winning gold, Randall was diagnosed with breast cancer. She decided to share her journey through treatment with the public, hoping to provide information and inspiration to other women. Through surgery, six rounds of chemotherapy and 33 sessions of radiation, Randall shared the ups and downs of treatment on social media, demonstrating optimism, resilience, and opportunities for recovery of an active life following serious illness.

Randall's work now focuses on community involvement and encouraging young people and women to embrace a healthy lifestyle. She has partnered with Healthy Futures, a program geared toward inspiring and teaching Alaska's kids to get active and make healthy decisions. Their mission is to "empower Alaska's youth to build the habit of daily physical activity for a lifetime of wellness and to provide youth the opportunity to participate in recreational events." She also works with Fast and Female, an organization dedicated to the empowerment of young women ages 9 to 19 through involvement in sports.

Randall has also joined forces with Protect Our Winters to fight climate change. This organization works to engage the global sports community in leading the movement against climate change.

Her volunteer efforts include fundraising for AKTIV Against Cancer, a nonprofit organization focused on ensuring that physical activity becomes an integral part of cancer treatment. Through her website It's Going to be Okay, she markets motivational merchandise focused on cancer recovery. Part of the proceeds of each sale are donated to AKTIV Against Cancer.

MERITORIOUS SERVICE AWARD

RACHEL EPSTEIN

Meritorious Service Award

Over the last two decades, the UAA Bookstore played host to over 900 public speaker events, book readings, and a podcast series, none of which would have been possible without the dedication and creativity of Rachel Epstein.

Epstein launched a series of public presentations at the Bookstore featuring the multidisciplinary work of faculty throughout the entire University of Alaska (UA) System, showcasing experts and topics sometimes not widely known or frequently discussed. In the following two decades, Epstein organized more than 900 presentations, often drawing large audiences resulting in lively question and answer periods.

In this work, Epstein performed a valuable service to the university and the community, broadening countless attendees’ horizons by providing them with the opportunity to learn more about the valuable, critical work being done by UA faculty across myriad topics.

As special events coordinator at the Bookstore, Epstein managed every aspect of these presentations on her own — scheduling, publicity and clerical work. She is a prime example of the many individuals working behind the scenes to support the university’s mission, demonstrating a concerted commitment to education, broadening peoples’ perspectives and enhancing the university experience.

WELCOME

CATHERINE HAESE

Graduate Student Speaker

For many students, making it to graduation can feel like a matter of life and death. Not only is that metaphor literal for psychiatric and mental health nurse practitioner graduate Catherine Haese, it's happened twice.

Originally from Minnesota, she moved to Alaska with her mother and sister in 1999. Having always taken care of people's needs, Haese decided in a high school health class to develop her nurturing disposition by pursuing a career in nursing.

Wanting to stay and serve her community, Haese earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from UAA in 2008 and immediately began working in the field as a registered nurse at institutions including North Star Behavioral Health, State of Alaska Department of Corrections and Anchorage School District.

"Part of why I wanted to stay is I really love the community connection. Some providers avoid that because they don't want to run into patients at the store. But I like seeing people be their normal selves, and I think they appreciate knowing their providers are humans too," she said.

In 2016, Haese broke both her arms in a fall, making parenting her two toddler sons a challenge and working as a nurse impossible. To alleviate the pain, she relied too heavily on alcohol, which inspired her return to UAA to foster addiction recovery solutions and treat mental health issues.

"Going back to school seemed intimidating and a lot of work for someone with kids. But after becoming sober and seeing people I knew die from addiction, I knew I had more to give and that I had to get back out there," she said.

After receiving her graduate psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner degree in May, Haese will begin working at Eagle River Behavioral Health. In this new role, she will use her personal experience to better connect with patients and set them up for lasting success with psychiatric medical management and psychotherapy.

"Providers sometimes skirt around the issue. Having been there myself, I want to approach the subject of addiction and mental health honestly and to look out for patients to make sure we're not putting them on a bad track to just get addicted to something else," she said.

In addition to her career, Haese hopes to continue her years of volunteering for various nursing associations by one day serving on the State of Alaska Board of Nursing. Specifically, she would like to offer guidance on interventions for nurses who have substance abuse disorders to cope with the stress of the job.

Similarly, as spring 2023 graduate student speaker, Haese wants to advise her fellow graduates on how to persist through any of life's challenges — which is a topic Haese knows a bit about, not only as a recovering alcoholic, but also as an eye cancer survivor, which she was diagnosed with at the beginning of her last year as a graduate student.

"In life there are going to be low points, but you just have to keep going. Completing school is a journey for everyone, but it feels amazing when you're at the top of that mountain, and having that confidence under your belt really helps prepare you for the life still to come," she said.

WELCOME

TUAN GRAZIANO

Student Speaker

Community has been at the heart of Tuan Graziano's undergraduate career at UAA. The spring 2023 student commencement speaker has been volunteering since high school, and once at UAA, his sense of serving his community and advocating for students grew.

"A mentor and I were discussing what it means to have and provide genuine support and we came up with a really cool quote that still resonates with me today," Graziano said. "What do you want to do and how can I help? I think about that when I am advocating for others and it's been such a guiding principle in my life and the work that I do."

When Graziano wasn't studying for his economics major or political science minor, you could find him on the second floor of the Student Union in the Union of Students of the University of Alaska Anchorage (USUAA) offices. His terms as USUAA student body vice president and president came on the heels of university budget cuts and an unprecedented global pandemic. But Graziano's deeply rooted beliefs in public service navigated him through uncertain times and allowed him to continue providing a voice for his peers.

While Graziano admits that much of his drive to succeed has come from within, he cannot reflect on his four-year collegiate experience without recognizing his peers, the faculty, staff and, most importantly, his family and friends who helped shape his story at UAA. It's the theme he's framing his commencement speech around — that while the individual student is driven to do the hard work to cross the stage at commencement, credit also goes to the "village" that helped make crossing the finish line a little bit easier.

"It's important to recognize the people in your life that have helped make you the special person that you are," said Graziano. "It's all the wonderful people in your life that you're connected to, that are just as excited for your success that has culminated in your graduation day. People are a powerful force and it's amazing how much you can achieve in life with the help of others."

WELCOME

Dear Graduates,

Today we honor you and celebrate your achievement. Your hard work and perseverance have led you to this milestone. Congratulations!

We know the path to graduation is not always easy, but you have risen to the occasion. Your dedication and resilience in pursuing your education are admirable, and I congratulate you on completing your degree program.

This is your day to celebrate your success with loved ones. You have crossed the threshold from student to graduate, and we welcome you to our university community of almost 67,000 Seawolf alumni.

Wherever your life journey takes you, your Seawolf family is always here to offer support and guidance. Thank you for letting UAA be a part of your journey.

We wish you all the best!

WELCOME

Dear UAA Class of 2023,

Congratulations! Graduation is a momentous occasion and an incredible achievement, and I'm proud to welcome you into the growing ranks of University of Alaska alumni.

All of the hard work, determination, and dedication that you have put into your studies is admirable. You have shown tremendous resilience and commitment, especially in the face of unprecedented challenges and uncertainties. University of Alaska graduates like you are vital to the state's success, and I'm excited to see where you go from here. While I hope you'll put your skills to work here in Alaska, I know you'll make a positive impact wherever you go and that you will represent UAA and Alaska well.

Remember that you are not alone in this journey: you have a network of fellow alumni, faculty, staff and supporters who are cheering you on and rooting for your future success. Stay connected, curious, and engaged with the world around you.

Once again, congratulations, Seawolves. I wish you all the best as you take on new challenges and opportunities. Go forth and make a difference!

Sincerely,

ACADEMIC TRADITIONS

Robes, Mortarboards, Hoods

An academic legend tells of a wise old Greek who dressed his students in mason’s sackcloth robes with mortarboards because, “Their destiny is to build. Some will build cities, some will build lives – perhaps one of them will build an empire; but all will be builders on the solid foundation of knowledge.”

Whether or not the ancient Greek dressed his students in sackcloth and mortarboard, the academic robes worn today by graduates and faculty trace their beginnings to the mid-12th century, when small groups studied under the tutelage of a scholar (often a monk or priest). These students chose to dress in a robe similar to that of their teacher. Through the centuries, this traditional scholarly dress did not change much. Each individual scholar donned special colors, fur and fabrics, as did his students. In contrast to those Old World customs, today’s academic robe has a basic organization that allows you to identify even more about the scholar.

Today’s scholars are the university faculty. They wear academic robes with colorful hoods reminiscent of the medieval monk’s cowl. The size and colors of the hood tell the observer what discipline the scholar pursued and from which college or university he or she graduated.

UAA master’s degree graduates will be wearing their hoods today, for they have gone beyond the bachelor’s degree to learn more and become scholars. The University of Alaska Anchorage’s colors are gold and green, hence these colors on the hood. The velvet trim on the hood signifies the scholar’s field.

Some colleges and universities use the soft beret, but the prevailing style of cap is the traditional square mortarboard, decorated with a long tassel. You may notice some faculty wearing a soft beret-style cap.

It does not matter whether the tassel is worn on the left or right of the mortarboard, but it is often customary to change the tassel to the other side after receiving the diploma.

While you may not be able to identify the origins of each specific academic robe and hood appearing in today's commencement ceremony, you can reflect that from the certificate graduate in his black gown to the Doctor of Philosophy, students and professors alike are paying homage to more than 800 years of academic tradition.

University Mace

The grand marshal carries the University of Alaska Anchorage mace in the commencement procession and places it in a stand on the stage during commencement ceremonies to signify the importance of the occasion. The UAA Alumni Association commissioned the mace in 1990 and two talented UAA employees created it. Dr. Vern Oremus, former dean of UAA's previous College of Career and Vocational Education, used a lathe to create the wooden staff and head. Associate Professor of Art Mariano Gonzales designed and produced the sterling silver torch at the top of the mace. The mace symbolizes UAA as a university of distinction and is traditionally entrusted to the faculty in recognition of their critical role in the education of our students.

GRADUATING WITH HONORS

UNIVERSITY HONORS

Associate and baccalaureate degree students graduating with honors in Spring 2023 are wearing a gold honor cord. Throughout the program, they are recognized by the stars next to their names. Honors are indicated as follows:

Cum Laude*

Magna Cum Laude

Summa Cum Laude

To be eligible to graduate with honors, associate and baccalaureate degree-seeking students must first earn a cumulative GPA of 3.50 or above in all college work attempted at UAA. A transfer student who is earning an associate degree must complete a minimum of 15 resident credits with academic letter grades to be eligible to graduate with honors. A transfer student who is earning a baccalaureate degree must complete a minimum of 30 resident credits with academic letter grades to be eligible to graduate with honors. All transfer students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.50 or above in all college work attempted both at UAA and at all other accredited institutions attended and for all courses used to fulfill the degree program in order to graduate with honors. At UAA, graduation with honors represents a student's entire academic history. All grades and credits earned will be included in determining eligibility to graduate with honors (Ds, Fs, retaken courses, courses lost in academic bankruptcy, etc.). In addition, a student transferring coursework and grades must have a minimum of 70% of their credits submitted with letter grades to be eligible to graduate with honors. Honors are awarded to associate and baccalaureate degree students with cumulative GPAs as follows:

*Cum Laude..... 3.50 to 3.79

Magna Cum Laude..... 3.80 to 3.99

Summa Cum Laude.....	4.00

HONOR SOCIETIES

BETA GAMMA SIGMA

Beta Gamma Sigma was founded as a national organization in 1913. Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest recognition a business student anywhere in the world can receive in an undergraduate or master's program at a school accredited by AACSB International – The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. AACSB-accredited schools are recognized as the top business schools in the world; only 5% of schools pass their rigorous standards for quality. To be eligible for membership, a student must be in the top 10% of the undergraduate class or in the top 20% of the graduate class. The mission of Beta Gamma Sigma is to encourage and honor academic achievement and personal excellence in the study and practice of business. Beta Gamma Sigma also strives to foster in its members an enduring commitment to the principles and values of the Society: honor and integrity. Beta Gamma Sigma members may be recognized by a blue and gold honor cord.

DELTA ALPHA PI INTERNATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Delta Alpha Pi International Honor Society (DAPI) is an academic honor society founded to recognize high-achieving students with disabilities who are attending colleges (including community colleges) and universities as undergraduate or graduate students. Founded in 2004 at East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania, DAPI is open to undergraduate and graduate students with disabilities. Students initiated into Delta Alpha Pi International Honor Society must have completed 24 undergraduate credits and have an overall GPA of 3.10, or 18 graduate credits and a GPA of 3.30. Students must self-identify as an individual with a disability and demonstrate an interest in disability issues. Delta Alpha Pi International Honor Society (DAPI) is an opportunity for students with disabilities to be recognized for their academic accomplishments. The honor society helps facilitate leadership, advocacy, and education for all students who choose to participate and help change negative perceptions associated with disabilities.

PHI KAPPA PHI

The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1897 at the state universities of Maine, Tennessee and Pennsylvania to recognize and encourage superior scholarship in all academic disciplines. The UAA chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was chartered in 1990. The society was named Phi Kappa Phi from the initial letter of the Greek words forming its adopted motto: Philosophia Krateito Photon, “Let the love of learning rule humanity.” Nomination to membership in Phi Kappa Phi is very selective, and is based upon academic achievement and good character. Membership in Phi Kappa Phi is limited to students with a GPA of 3.8 and above. A medallion on a blue ribbon recognizes students in Phi Kappa Phi.

PSI CHI

Psi Chi, the National Honor Society in Psychology, is an affiliate of the American Psychology Association and the American Psychological Society. It was founded in 1929 for the purpose of encouraging, stimulating and maintaining excellence in scholarship and advancing the science of psychology. Membership is limited to graduate and undergraduate students who are making the study of psychology one of their major interests and who meet rigorous qualifications. Students in Psi Chi may be recognized by an intertwined platinum and dark blue honor cord.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

On behalf of UAA, the Commencement Committee truly appreciates your participation. Thank you to the following people and organizations for making this a memorable celebration for our graduates and families:

The many UAA staff, faculty, alumni and student volunteers, who gave their time so generously.

UAA Army ROTC Color Guard, for the Presentation of Colors.

UAA Alumni Association, for providing the graduation gift.

UAA Disability Support Services, for providing American Sign Language interpreters.

UAA Facilities and Campus Services, for transporting supplies, organizing setup and keeping us safe.

UAA General Support Services, for coordinating printing and production of print materials.

UAA/NMS Catering, for feeding our volunteers and staff.

Seawolf Store, for sales of regalia and announcements.

UAA Robotics Club/Engineers Without Borders, for coordinating flower sales.

Yurapik Drummers and Dancers, for their Alaska heritage performance.

Bill Zervantium Photography, for capturing the magic moment for each student.

Creative Lighting and Sound, for allowing us to be heard.

Alaska Event Services, for providing our décor.

Green Connection and Evalyn's Floral, for providing our plants and flowers.

UAA Seawolf Debate, for helping serve as our voice of the ceremony.

Congratulations to the Class of 2023!

Dear UAA Graduates:

I remember standing in your shoes a decade ago, wondering anxiously what I would make of myself or if I passed my last chemistry test. Regardless of the exact thoughts in my mind – I knew I was exhausted, relieved and amped up about finally graduating!

Some of you made the decision to attend college to advance your career, to further your education as a lifelong learner, or for a host of other reasons. Whatever the reason, you did it! Now is the time to stand proudly on your own accomplishments. Be fulfilled by the hard work, dedication and tenacity that got you to graduation. As you reflect on your unique journey – remember those that helped to get you to this moment. Tell those people thank you (again and again), give them a hug and honor them in a special way. Your support system will be invaluable as you navigate life. Surrounding yourself with great people is a vital key to success.

You may have a plan for what's to come or you may not. Either is okay. Get a job, continue your education or take a gap year and travel the world! No matter what you do, you owe it to your future self to be true to the person you are today. As you transition into the next phase of your life, bet on yourself. Quiet that voice of doubt, let go of the fear, rise up and self-advocate! Even if you aren't the best in your trade, career or skill, stay determined to be better than the day before and over time it will yield great results.

We are fortunate to live in an incredibly diverse, wildly unique and very remote city that is full of kind, generous and talented humans. You are part of the fabric that makes this city and university so special and you have an opportunity to do good in your community. Consider staying in Alaska and working for a local company or serving others by becoming a business mentor, volunteer at a local nonprofit or advocate for UAA. Whatever your passion, small acts make large impacts. Remember that some of you out there will change the world. It all starts right here. Right now.

Whoever you are, wherever you come from, you can do it!

Sincerely,

Lessie Kincaid
